Overview

Webinar invitations land in inboxes every day—but getting the right people to RSVP and actually attend? That's the real challenge.

Zoom needed a strategic push to drive engagement for their Executive Forum: AI Leadership Insights for 2025 and Beyond- an in-person, live event in Singapore. With a high-profile speaker and well AI insights, this event had the potential to be a game-changer. But first, we had to cut through the noise and ensure decision-makers showed up.

We crafted a targeted multi-channel campaign—blending email marketing with telemarketing follow-ups—to drive high-intent registrations and attendance.
The results?

✅ 850 highly qualified invites sent
✅ 117 RSVPs from decision-makers and industry leaders
✅ 45 engaged attendees, translating to a 38% attendance rate—far exceeding industry benchmarks
✅ A room full of the right people, ready to take action

This wasn't just another live event campaign. It was a targeted engagement strategy that turned cold prospects into active participants.

The Challenge

Zoom had a gold-standard event in the works, featuring Velchamy Sankarlingam, President of Product and Engineering at Zoom. But they needed quality attendance, not just numbers.

The obstacles?

🚫 Inbox overload: With professionals flooded by event invites daily, standing out was tough.
🚫 Drop-off risk: RSVPs don't always translate into actual attendance.
🚫 Right audience, wrong focus: Generic invitations wouldn't cut it—Zoom needed decision-makers and AI enthusiasts who were genuinely interested in future-ready strategies.

Our Approach

We built a highly personalized outreach strategy designed to attract, engage, and convert the right audience.

💡 Strategic Email Campaign:

- We crafted a high-impact, value-driven invitation focused on AI's role in business transformation.
- The content was customized to resonate with C-level executives, decision-makers, and industry influencers.
- Personalized messaging ensured relevance, increasing RSVP rates.

📞 Telemarketing Follow-Ups:

- We didn't just stop at email. Our team personally followed up with high-priority prospects, ensuring they understood the value of attending.
- This human touch significantly increased attendance commitment.

📊 Simplifying the Registration Process:

- We simplified the RSVP process, making it frictionless for decision-makers to confirm their attendance.
- By capturing key attendee data, we helped Zoom gain deeper insights into their audience.

The Results

- 850 Targeted Invites Sent – No random blasts here. We handpicked high-intent decision-makers in AI, tech, and enterprise leadership. The messaging? Dialed in to their pain points, making this a must-attend event.
- 117 RSVPs (13.7% Conversion Rate) – Our email campaign didn't just land in inboxes—it got real engagement. The hook? Exclusive AI insights from Zoom's top brass, paired with a clear, action-driven invite.
- 45 Executives Showed Up (38% Attendance Rate) – For B2B events, the industry average is 30% attendance, but our follow-up game was strong. A mix of email nudges + strategic telemarketing ensured more seats were filled with the right people.
- Telemarketing Follow-Ups Sealed the Deal – Let's be real—email alone isn't enough. Our personalized calls kept invitees engaged, addressed last-minute concerns, and gave that extra nudge to show up. No wasted leads. No missed opportunities.
- Data Goldmine for Future Outreach – Every RSVP came with key insights: job roles, decision-making power, interest levels, and buying intent. Zoom now had a pre-qualified, high-value list ready for post-event nurturing.
- Pipeline Impact: From Interest to Action – This wasn't just an event—it was a lead generation engine. The right audience, the right strategy, and a clear follow-up path meant Zoom wasn't just hosting a forum; they were fueling their pipeline with decision-makers ready to act.

Lesson? Spray-and-pray is dead. Strategic, multi-channel campaigns drive real results—and we've got the numbers to prove it.

The Takeaway

This campaign proved one thing—successful live events aren't just about sending invites; they're about creating conversations. The combination of targeted email outreach and strategic telemarketing follow-ups ensured that our invites didn't just land in inboxes but actually translated into real attendance. We focused on quality over quantity, engaging the right people with the right message at the right time. The follow-ups made all the difference, turning interest into action and ensuring high-value prospects didn't slip through the cracks.

At the end of the day, it's not just about getting people to show up—it's about making every interaction count.
